

Eye gaze board (Non-powered AAC)

An eye gaze communication board is a clear, rectangular plastic frame which enables individuals who use their eyes to make choices and express themselves.

Eye gaze boards are excellent for individuals who are unable to reach or point, but who have good control over their eyes.

The communication partner verbally acknowledges and confirms the selection made by the user

The communication partner holds the board up between them and the user. The user then looks towards the symbol, word or letter they want to express.

Image taken from Communication Matters

Initially, a single symbol or word is placed at each corner. As the user becomes more proficient, additional symbols can be added. The system can be further expanded using colour or number coding to access a wider range of items.