

There are lots of different things that people can choose to do when they are not at school anymore, like going to university or getting a job.

Researchers want to know what you would like to do in the future, and what you would not like to do in the future.

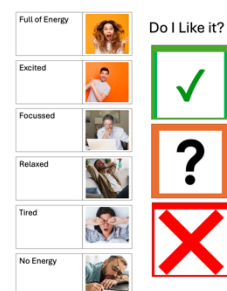

One researcher will chat to you. They will find out what you would like to do in the future by asking you to do three different activities: Visual Conversation, Energy Meter and Regulation Meter.

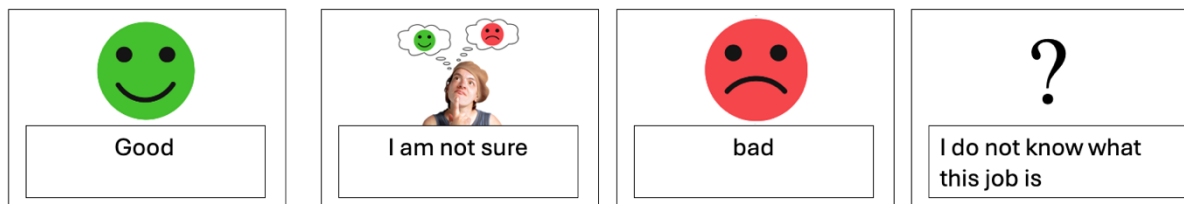

Visual Conversation

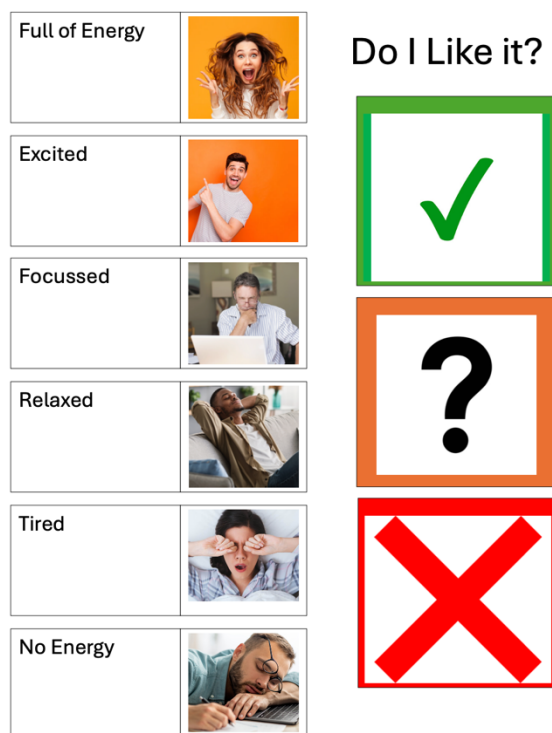

Regulation Meter

Energy Meter

During the ‘Visual Conversation” activity, the researcher will ask you how you would feel doing different types of jobs, and they might ask you “why” you feel that way.

During the “energy meter” activity, the researcher will ask you how you would feel doing different types of jobs. They will ask you if you like or do not like feeling that way and they might ask you “why” you feel that way.

During the “regulation meter” activity, the researcher will ask you how you would feel doing different types of jobs, and they might ask you “why” you feel that way.

Each activity will take no more than 10 minutes to complete.

You do not have to take part. You can say “stop” at any time by pointing at the “stop” symbol.

If you have questions, you can either ask the researcher, or point at the orange question mark.
